Product Story

AWABI - ABALONE

A great number of quality awabi can be found in the waters around Japan, which are known to be among the world's most flourishing fisheries. Since ancient times, Japanese dried awabi has been considered a highly prized export item, and it was once priced as high as gold and silver. In natural farming, artificially bred juvenile awabi are released into restricted areas of the ocean to be reared under natural conditions. Still, this hasn't changed the fact that awabi is one of the highest priced, most desired food items in the world, awabi feed on seaweed alone and grow at a very slow rate; it takes ten to twenty years to reach a marketable size.

KURUMA EBI - JAPANISESE TIGER PRAWN

The Kuruma prawn, also known as Kuruma shrimp is a marine prawn belonging to the Penaeidae family, and one of the most valuable, shrimp species in aquaculture. It is distinguishable from other tiger shrimp species by the bright blue markings on the tip of their tails.
